¹Live Blackjack game RTP is 100.04%. Assuming one bet per game (ave bet $128), the 95% confidence interval is from 98.9% to 100.1%, so the game is paying within expected limits. Looking at the individual months, the RTP was high in July 2020 (106%), then lower in August (98%) and September (96%). We believe the result is therefore normal statistical variation, and there is no evidence of a faulty game.

iTech Labs certifies that the RTPs were calculated correctly from the game logs based on the actual bets and winnings and that the actual RTPs are greater than normally required by international gaming jurisdictions.

¹Roulette Multiplayer RTP is 100.65%. The game is behaving normally, and this result is not statistically significant.

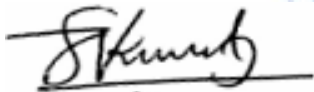

Details are as follows:

- 95% confidence limits for RTP are 96.32% to 97.95%, but this assumes every bet is of equal value. This is clearly not the case.
- Higher value bets bias RTP results and lower value bets do not add as much weight when bets and wins are summed. If 5% of all bets were of a significantly higher value than the rest of the bets, then this quarter's result would fall within 95% confidence limits.
- Looking at the RTP history of this game, RTP does fluctuate similarly above and below the theoretical RTP, so the game does appear to be performing normally.
- The symmetry of swings above and below theoretical RTP supports our assumption that a small number of higher value bets are responsible for the swings.
- We therefore conclude the game is behaving normally, and the result is not statistically significant.

¹Roulette Multiplayer RTP is 100.81%. The observed RTP is outside 95% confidence, but within 98% confidence for this game assuming all bets are the same value i.e. that every bet has the same weighting on the RTP. Variable bet size would increase RTP volatility because there is a smaller number of significant bets. This RTP result is therefore not statistically significant.
